Asia

1) October 16th is World Food Day. As in years past, TFT Japan's "1 Million Itadakimasu!" campaign is in full effect with over 20 events and limited edition products sold during the campaign period, which ends November 30th. 2&3) Pictures from a press conference in Tokyo. 4) The TFT Hong Kong team, led by Katy Yung, presented a training program to the HK Convention Exhibition Center (HKCEC) restaurant managers. HKCEC will add TFT dishes to four of their restaurants this November.

America

A number of World Food Day events were held in the U.S. as well. Top&5) In San Diego, California Kebab, a new TFT partner, hosted an event featuring trivia, locally brewed beer, and artwork by local students (pictured at top). 6) At Columbia University, students came together to discuss social entrepreneurship over healthy appetizers and drinks. 7&8) Students from three schools in the DC area gathered at American University. The evening included opening remarks from FAO staff, a colorful skit (see picture), a live video feed with TFT members in Japan and Vietnam, food prepared by TFT partners, and a tasting of posho, a common staple in East Africa used in many of TFT's school meals. 9) Follow the two participants in the TFT Health Challenge (look for "TFT HealthChallenger" on Facebook) as they change their diets during the campaign towards a healthier lifestyle.

Europe

Africa

12) The Millennium Villages Team in Koraro, Ethiopia reported this month that enrollment remains high and drop-outs low in all 22 schools supported by TFT as the new term began. Pictured are students holding up oranges, which complement the corn soya blend served for lunch.

10) Lovisenberg Diakonale Hospital will join Akershus University Hospital as TFT's second partner in Norway. The hospital is owned by the private deaconess foundations Diakonissehuset Lovisenberg and Diakonova and provides medical services to 170,000 inhabitants in Oslo. 11) TFT UK invited founder Masa Kogure for an event at the law firm Simmons & Simmons, where attendees from various backgrounds expressed interest in supporting TFT's activities in the UK.

A Message From TABLE FOR TWO
Executive Director Masa Kogure

World Food Day celebrations kicked off around the world, as TFT hosted dozens of events across Japan, the U.S., Vietnam, and the Philippines.

Food lies at the center of our lives, wherever we live. As we near the holiday season, let's take this opportunity to share a meal across time and space.

Please come to our events, follow us on Facebook, and together send 1 million more meals by the end of November!

Our hearts go out to all who were affected by Hurricane Sandy in the U.S.
